

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0089] A power state selection system and method are described to receive a representation of a network processing load associated with a plurality of network access devices, to select a power state based on the representation, and to assert a power state selection signal corresponding to the selected power state.

103260" 2E029660